Do you know how old is Patanjali's Ayurvedic and Herbal products? It has been one of the famous brand for years. It is more than 2000 years old in history. It began in Ayodhya, India by a Brahmin named Arya Pandit Charudatta who found herbs in forest and believed in the efficiency of herbs for human. So he started conducting herbs to get human wellbeing and worked hard to convert Ayurvedic herbs into a medicinal product that can deliver tremendous healing properties. Just a few years later, another Brahmin named Somanath Yashjiv dated back the age of Ayurveda and Herbs to 3,000 years ago. Somanath worked at Mathura, near the Golden Temple, at the end of the sixth century BC. His achievements in Natural healing were astonishing. Let me tell you that he was a genius in herbs. He worked at the court of Bimbisara Joshi, and he formed extensive libraries to provide herbs to these manuscripts. He later wrote a book titled "Kharma" (Herbs), which was the first book written on herbs in Sanskrit. When Ayurveda spread in Europe in the seventeenth century, Western pharmacist and physician Dr. Jamshyd in London practiced Ayurvedic medicine and brought so many herbs from Indian. He told about its curative properties to Louis Pasteur, who shared this knowledge with Emperor Napoleon and this led to the significant growth of what we call as Ayurveda today. Here I can't list all the names of people who contributed to the spread of Ayurveda. It depends on the time, where we live, the stress level and the health problems. Pat c6a93da74d
